Wings in the Desert Amadeo M. Rea,2022-04-12 There is a common but often unspoken arrogance on the part of outside observers that folk science and traditional knowledge the type developed by Native communities and tribal groups is inferior to the formal science practiced by Westerners In this lucidly written and humanistic account of the O odham tribes of Arizona and Northwest Mexico ethnobiologist Amadeo M Rea exposes the limitations of this assumption by exploring the rich ornithology that these tribes have generated about the birds that are native to their region He shows how these peoples observational knowledge provides insights into the behaviors mating habits migratory patterns and distribution of local bird species and he uncovers the various ways that this knowledge is incorporated into the communities traditions and esoteric belief systems Drawing on more than four decades of field and textual research along with hundreds of interviews with tribe members Rea identifies how birds are incorporated both symbolically and practically into Piman legends songs art religion and ceremonies Through highly detailed descriptions and accounts loaded with Native voice this book is the definitive study of folk ornithology It also provides valuable data for scholars of linguistics and North American Native studies and it makes a significant contribution to our understanding of how humans make sense of their world It will be of interest to historians of science anthropologists and scholars of indigenous cultures and folk taxonomy

Believing In Place Richard V. Francaviglia, 2016-02-01 The austere landscape of the Great Basin has inspired diverse responses from the people who have moved through or settled in it Author Richard V Francaviglia is interested in the connection between environment and spirituality in the Great Basin for here he says faith and landscape conspire to resurrect old myths and create new ones As a geographer Francaviglia knows that place means more than physical space Human perceptions and interpretations are what give place its meaning In Believing in Place he examines the varying human perceptions of and relationships with the Great Basin landscape from the region s Native American groups to contemporary tourists and politicians to determine the spiritual issues that have shaped our connections with this place In doing so he considers the creation and flood myths of several cultures the impact of the Judeo Christian tradition and individualism Native American animism and shamanist traditions the Mormon landscape the spiritual dimensions of gambling the religious foundations of Cold War ideology stories of UFOs and alien presence and the convergence of science and spirituality Believing in Place is a profound and totally engaging reflection on the ways that human needs and spiritual traditions can shape our perceptions of the land That the Great Basin has inspired such a complex variety of responses is partly due to its enigmatic vastness and isolation partly to the remarkable range of peoples who have found themselves in the region Using not only the materials of traditional geography but folklore anthropology Native American and Euro American religion contemporary politics and New Age philosophies Francaviglia has produced a fascinating and timely investigation of the role of human conceptions of place in that space we call the Great Basin
