Ending Sexual Violence in College Joanne H. Gavin, James Campbell Quick, David J. Gavin, 2021-03-23 How do we create a culture of zero tolerance for sexual violence on college campuses In a world where one in five women on campus experience some form of sexual assault what would it take to create a campus culture that was free of violence against women From a public health perspective sexual assault is an epidemic on campuses but why What is it about a campus community culture that permits or encourages this at a time when a majority of students are now female In this practical guide for colleges and universities Joanne H Gavin James Campbell Quick and David J Gavin lay out a community based model that is designed to eliminate sexual misconduct spot it before it happens punish its perpetrators support its victims survivors and end this epidemic Ending Sexual Violence in College is a prescriptive guide for creating a campus culture that is intolerant of sexual misconduct regardless of who is involved or the context in which it happens A culture of intolerance the authors argue does not consider the role or status of either the perpetrator or victim survivor Rather this culture protects all members Using a public health model with an emphasis on prevention to create this cultural change the book utilizes psychological and organizational research to understand the challenges of making these changes while enhancing the odds of permanent cultural change for the better Designed to spur community wide conversations on how we can make our campuses safe from sexual violence this book s preventive approach allows communities to self monitor The authors include case studies of institutions that have not been proactive in putting programs in place to protect students as well as examples of institutions that are effectively addressing these problems Aimed at college administrators and Title IX coordinators who are responsible for leading campuses that are safe for everyone Ending Sexual Violence in College also enables those who work or live on a college campus to take an active role in making the campus safer Eurasian Economic Perspectives Mehmet Huseyin Bilgin,Hakan Danis,Gökhan Karabulut,Giray Gözgor,2020-03-31 This book presents selected papers from the 23rd Eurasia Business and Economics Society EBES Conference held in Madrid Spain While the theoretical and empirical papers presented cover diverse areas of economics and finance in different geographic regions the main focus is on the latest research concerning international trade public economics and regional studies The book also includes studies on the economics of innovation inequality and tourism

Global Climate Change - The Technology Challenge Frank Princiotto,2011-05-19 In order to avoid the potentially catastrophic impacts of global warming the current 3% CO2 global emission growth rate must be transformed to a 1 to 3% declining rate as soon as possible This will require a rapid and radical transformation of the world s energy production and end use systems The current generation of energy technologies are not capable of achieving the level of mitigation required Next generations of renewable low carbon generation and end use technologies will be needed This book quantifies the mitigation challenge It then considers the status of key technologies needed to protect the planet from serious climate change impact Current and emerging technologies are characterized for their mitigation potential status of development and potential environmental impacts Power generation mobile sources industrial and building sectors are evaluated in detail The importance and unique challenges for rapidly developing countries such as China and India are discussed Current global research and development efforts for key technologies are discussed It is concluded that it will be necessary to substantially upgrade and accelerate the current worldwide RDD D effort on both emerging energy technologies and those enabling technologies needed to improve mitigation effectiveness and economics It will also be necessary to carefully evaluate the potential environmental characteristics of next generation technologies to avoid unacceptable health and ecological impacts Finally given the monumental technological challenge associated with transforming the world s energy system geoengineering options are evaluated since if successfully deployed they have the potential to allow more time for the necessary energy system transformation This book on Climate Change not only gives a clear picture of the problem but suggests many of the pitfalls in solving it and recommends strongly a research program to fill the gaps in our knowledge It is a most useful reference book for all aspects of the problem William D Ruckelshaus Madrona Venture Group Evergreen Venture Integrated Care and Fall Prevention in Active and Healthy Aging Eklund, Patrik,2021-06-25 In today s world healthy aging and a fulfilling lifestyle are important to older members of society with many opting to remain as independent and mobile as possible for as long as possible However elderly individuals tend to have a variety of functional limitations that can increase the likelihood of debilitating falls and injuries Assessments of functionality are very often only performed following an accident which implies a hindsight bias because results do not necessarily reflect pre accidental performance capacities Furthermore these belated measures do little to reduce the likelihood of new falls As such it is imperative that personalized preventative approaches are taken to prevent falls Integrated Care and Fall Prevention in Active and Healthy Aging contains state of the art research and practices related to integrated care fall prevention and aging throughout areas ranging from medical to social aspects of care health economy standards pathways and information scopes practices and guidelines technology etc Covering topics such as active care and healthy aging it is ideal for doctors gerontologists nursing home and long care facility staff scientists researchers students academicians and practitioners working in care pathways involving good practices of fall prevention in home care and community care settings

Framing the Threat Imke Köhler, 2019-03-04 There is great power in the use of words words create most of what we consider to be real and true Framing our words and narratives is thus a tool of power but a power that also comes with limitations This intriguing issue is the topic of Framing the Threat an investigation of the relationship between language and security and of how discourse creates the scope of possibility for political action In particular the book scrutinizes and compares the security narratives of the former US presidents George W Bush and Barack Obama It shows how their framings of identity i e of the American self and the enemy other facilitated a certain construction of threat that shaped the presidents detention and interrogation policies By defining what was necessary in the name of national security Bush s narrative justified the operation of the detention center at Guantanamo Bay and rendered the mistreatment of detainees possible a situation that would have otherwise been illegal Bush s framings therefore enabled legal limits to be pushed and made the violation of rules appear legitimate Obama in contrast constructed a threat scenario that required an end to rule violations and the closure of Guantanamo for security reasons According to this narrative a return to the rule of law was imperative if the American people were to be kept safe However Obama s framing was continually challenged and it was never able to dominate public discourse Consequently Framing the Threat argues Obama was unable to implement the policy changes he had announced
