Tourism in National Capitals and Global Change Robert Maitland,2014-10-14 At a time of increasing city competition national capitals are at the forefront of efforts to gain competitive advantage for themselves and their nation to project a distinctive and positive image and to score well in global city league tables They are frequently their country s main tourist gateway and their success in attracting visitors is inextricably linked with that of the nation They attract not just leisure visitors they are especially important in other growing tourism markets for example as centres of power they feature strongly in business tourism as academic centres they are important for educational tourism and they frequently host global events such as the Olympic Games And there are more of them first the number of capitals has grown as the number of nation states has increased and secondly pressures for devolution mean more cities are seeking national capital status even when they are not at the head of independent states We need to understand tourism in capitals better but there has been little research in the past This book develops new insights as it explores the phenomenon of capital city tourism and uses recent research to examine the appeal of capitalness to tourists and explore developments in capitals across the world This book was published as a special issue of Current Issues in Tourism

Critical Theories in Dark Tourism Nitasha Sharma, Annaclaudia Martini, Dallen J. Timothy, 2024-12-02 This book facilitates a critical investigation of gaps in theorizing and framing dark tourism by navigating through some onto epistemological issues theoretical entanglements future possibilities and the application of critical theoretical perspectives related to affect and emotions human animal studies postcolonialism feminism trauma studies posthumanism power and identity In doing so it advances the need to connect critical theory pragmatism and contemporary issues of social and global relevance Given the growing body of critical research within tourism studies dark tourism has somewhat lagged behind For example critical tourism researchers have been examining postcolonialism for two decades but dark tourism research has only sporadically engaged with this topic Similarly the issue of gender has been curiously neglected within dark tourism In addition dark tourism research has tended to shy away from the big challenges facing contemporary societies Through its engagement with a range of critical theories this volume not only addresses gaps in the existing dark tourism literature but also moves the debate forward in exciting new directions This volume is well placed to demonstrate to other disciplines and fields that dark tourism research can be critical theoretically grounded and transformative

Duncan Light Emotion in Motion Mike Robinson, David Picard, 2016-05-06 What happens when tourists scream with fear shout with anger and frustration weep with joy and delight or even faint in the face of revealed beauty How can certain sites affect some tourists so deeply that they require hospitalisation and psychiatric treatment What are the inner contours of tourist experience and how does it relate to specific emotional cultures What are the consequences of the emotional cultures of tourists upon destinations How are differences in emotional culture mobilized and played out in the transnational contact zones of international tourism While many books have engaged with the structural frames of tourist practice and experience this is the first to deal with the emotional dimensions of tourism travel and contact and the ways in which they can transform tourists destinations and travel cultures through emotional engagements The book brings together an international array of scholars from anthropology psychiatry history cultural geography and critical tourism studies to explore how the movement to and through the realms of exotic people wild natures subliminal art spirit worlds metropolitan cities and sexualised others variably provoke emotions peak experiences travel syndromes and inner dialogues The authors show how tourism challenges us to engage with concepts of self other time nature sex the body and death Through a set of ethnographic and historic cases they demonstrate that such engagements usually have little to do with the actual destination but rather are deeply anchored in personal memories repressed fears and desires and the collective imaginaries of our societies
