have changed and the intellectual property system faces increasing friction with public policies The contributions to this book inquire into whether the TRIPS Agreement should still be seen only as part of an international trade regulation or whether it needs to be understood or even reconceptualized as a framework regulation for the international protection of intellectual property The purpose therefore is not to define the terms of an outright revision of the TRIPS Agreement but rather to discuss the framework conditions for an interpretative evolution that could make the Agreement better suited to the expectations and needs of today's global economy Private Law and Competition Regulation Alberto Brown, 2024-07-12
