English Fiction in the 1930s Chris Hopkins, 2006-01-01 This study approaches the fiction of the 1930s through critical debates about genre language and history setting these in their original context and discussing the generic forms most favoured by novelists at the time Chris Hopkins uses a series of case studies of texts to draw on develop or explore the boundaries contemporary usefulness and complexities of particular prose genres Generic debates and the political aesthetic effects of different kinds of representation were live issues as discursive struggles and negotiations took place between modernist and realist modes between high middle and lowbrow categorisations of culture between literature and mass culture and between different conceptions of the role of the writer politics and nationality sexuality and gender identities Chris Hopkins draws both on well known texts and on novels which have only recently begun to be discussed by critics of the thirties particularly those by women writers whose work has still not been related very clearly to the literary and political debates of the period Organised in five sections each focusing on major genres he takes a wide range of novels as case studies and discusses their uses of generic forms relating them to other examples and to their historical political and cultural contexts

Misers, Shrews, and Polygamists Keith McMahon,1995 Having multiple wives was one of the mainstays of male privilege during the Ming and Qing dynasties of late imperial China Based on a comprehensive reading of eighteenth century Chinese novels and a theoretical approach grounded in poststructuralist psychoanalytic and feminist criticism Misers Shrews and Polygamists examines how such privilege functions in these novels and provides the first full account of literary representations of sexuality and gender in pre modern China In many examples of rare erotic fiction and in other works as well known as Dream of the Red Chamber Keith McMahon identifies a sexual economy defined by the figures of the miser and the shrew caricatures of the retentive self containing man and the overflowing male enervating woman Among these and other characters the author explores the issues surrounding the practice of polygamy the logic of its overvaluation of masculinity and the nature of sexuality generally in Chinese society How does the man with many wives manage and justify his sexual authority Why and how might he escape or limit this presumed authority sometimes to the point of portraying himself as abject before the shrewish woman How do women accommodate or coddle the man or else oppose undermine or remold him And in what sense does the man place himself lower than the spiritually and morally superior woman The most extensive English language study of Chinese literature from the eighteenth century this examination of polygamy will interest not only students of Chinese history culture and literature but also all those concerned with histories of gender and sexuality

Right Romance Emily Griffiths Jones, 2020-04-23 In this book Emily Griffiths Jones examines the intersections of romance religion and politics in England between 1588 and 1688 to show how writers during this politically turbulent time used the genre of romance to construct diverse ideological communities for themselves Right Romance argues for a recontextualized understanding of romance as a multigeneric narrative structure or strategy rather than a prose genre and rejects the common assumption that romance was a short lived mode most commonly associated with royalist politics Puritan republicans likewise found in romance strength solace and grounds for political resistance Two key works that profoundly influenced seventeenth century approaches to romance are Philip Sidney's New Arcadia and Edmund Spenser's The Faerie Queene which grappled with romance's civic potential and its limits for a newly Protestant state Jones examines how these works influenced writings by royalists and republicans during and after the English Civil War Remaining chapters pair writers from both sides of the war in order to illuminate the ongoing ideological struggles over romance John Milton is analyzed alongside Margaret Cavendish and Percy Herbert and Lucy Hutchinson alongside John Dryden In the final chapter Jones studies texts by John Bunyan and Aphra Behn that are known for their resistance to generic categorization in an attempt to rethink romance's relationship to election community gender and generic form Original and persuasive Right Romance advances theoretical discussion about romance pushing beyond the limits of the genre to discover its impact on constructions of national communal and personal identity

Mobile Communication and Greater China Wai-chi Rodney Chu, 2012 This edited volume examines mobile phone use in China Unlike most studies on ICT development in China this book argues for the importance of the cultural realm as captured in mobile phone usage in reflecting the normative basis and struggle of the people It stresses how the mobile phone is in fact an important means by which one can understand a rapidly changing China A key concern of the book is to assert the uniqueness of China's experience in mobile phone usage This uniqueness is encapsulated by the phrase riding the double juggernaut in that Chinese society is exposed to a rapid process of industrialization and cyberization in a short period of time The contributors maintain that such density of experience under a compressed period when the society has a thick cultural heritage of its own and yet is still under a dictating rule all come together to provide a unique situation in China The Routledge Companion to Romantic Love Ann Brooks,2021-11-29 The Routledge Companion to Romantic Love is a multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary reference work essential for students and researchers interested in the field of love romance and popular romance fiction This first of its kind volume illustrates the broad and interdisciplinary nature of love studies International contributors including leaders in their field reflect a range of perspectives from cultural studies history literature popular romance studies American studies sociology and gender studies Comprising over 30 chapters by a team of international contributors the Companion is divided into 12 parts Love romance and historical and social change Love and feminist discourses Love and popular romance fiction Love gender and sexuality Romancing Australia South and Southeast Asian romance communities Nation place and identity in US popular romance novels Romantic love and national identity in Chinese and Taiwanese discourses of love Muslim and Middle Eastern romances Discourses of romance fiction and technologies of power Writing love and romance Legal and theological fiction and sexual politics This is an important and unique collection aimed at researchers and students across cultural studies women and gender studies literature studies and sociology
