Mau Mau Crucible of War Nicholas K. Githuku, 2015-12-09 Mau Mau Crucible of War is a study of the social and cultural history of the mentalit of struggle in Kenya which reached a high water mark during the Mau Mau war of the 1950s but which continues to resonate in Kenya today in the ongoing demand for a decent standard of living and social justice for all This work catalyzes intellectual debate in various disciplines regarding not just the evolution of the Kenyan state but also the state in Africa It not only engages historians of colonial and postcolonial economic and political history but also sociologists anthropologists political scientists and those who study personality and social branches of psychology postcolonialism and postmodernity social movements armed conflict specialists and conflict resolution analysts Searching for a New Kenya Stephanie Diepeveen, 2021-05-06 Searching for a New Kenya analyses public discussion in urban Kenya focusing on the gatherings of citizens both in person and online where people discuss issues of common concern to shed light on the role public discussion plays in politics and how social media affects political movements Through rich ethnographic study of politics on the ground and online in Mombasa Stephanie Diepeveen brings a fresh perspective on the wider challenges and dynamics of negotiating political narratives across protracted historical debates and changing digital media Based on a critical revision of Hannah Arendt s ideas about action and power this study explores the different dynamics of public talk in practice It contributes to wider debates about the place and limitations of the Western canon in relation to the study of politics elsewhere while also offering a nuanced view of why and how certain terms of debate persist in Kenya and where the potential for change lies for public talk across changing media A Tapestry of African Histories Nicholas K. Githuku, 2021-10-18 In A Tapestry of African Histories With Longer Times and Wider Geopolitics contributors demonstrate that African historians are neither comfortable nor content with studying continental or global geopolitical social and economic events across the superficial divide of time as if they were disparate or disconnected Instead the chapters within the volume reevaluate African history through a geopolitically transcendent lens that brings African countries into conversation with other pertinent histories both within and outside of the continent The collection analyzes the pre and post colonial eras within African countries such as Kenya Malawi and Sudan examining major historical figures and events struggles for independence and stability contemporary urban settlements social and economic development as well as constitutional legal and human rights issues that began in the colonial era and persist to this day
