Language Online David Barton, Carmen Lee, 2013-04-17 In Language Online David Barton and Carmen Lee investigate the impact of the online world on the study of language. The effects of language use in the digital world can be seen in every aspect of language study and new ways of researching the field are needed. In this book the authors look at language online from a variety of perspectives providing a solid theoretical grounding, an outline of key concepts and practical guidance on doing research. Chapters cover topical issues including the relation between online language and multilingualism, identity, education and multimodality, then conclude by looking at how to carry out research into online language use. Throughout the book many examples are given from a variety of digital platforms and a number of different languages including Chinese and English. Written in a clear and accessible style, this is a vital read for anyone new to studying online language and an essential textbook for undergraduates and postgraduates working in the areas of new media literacy and multimodality within language and linguistics courses.

Working as a Professional Translator JC Penet, 2024-04-25 What does it take to be a professional translator in the 21st century? What are the opportunities and challenges of a career in translation? How do you find that first job? How do you ensure that work remains sustainable over time? Combining industry insights, the latest research in the field of translation studies and a career coaching approach, this textbook takes aspiring translators on an explorative journey that helps them answer these questions for themselves so they can become the professional translators they aspire to be. Each chapter of this hands-on guide opens with key questions that budding translators might typically ask themselves and encourages them to reflect on their relevance for their own situation through regular discussion points and Topics for discussion and assignments. Targeted suggestions for further reading at the end of each chapter guide users in deepening their knowledge. Written primarily for students on translation courses, the accessible language, tone and design of this book will appeal to anyone who is thinking of embarking upon a career in translation. Integrating Information and Communication Technologies in English for Specific Purposes Rosa Muñoz-Luna, Lidia Taillefer, 2017-11-07
This book fills the need for a text that integrates Information and Communication Technologies (ICTs) into English for Specific Purposes (ESP). It offers insights on current methodological principles in ESP in both academic and professional contexts, drawing on authentic teaching and learning situations and analysing best practice guidelines. Part I begins with ESP pedagogical principles and technological practice in order to focus on its two main branches: English for Academic Purposes, which includes linguistic skills and students' needs, and English for Occupational Purposes, specifically looking at Business, Medical and Translators courses. This book is a great resource for ESP researchers, educators and students because it provides case studies of how ICTs can be used in English for multiple purposes. Authors present their experiences of integrating tools into their instructions, with each chapter contributing unique pedagogical implications.

Translating Texts Brian Baer, Christopher Mellinger, 2019-11-22
Clear and accessible, this textbook provides a step by step guide to textual analysis for beginning translators and translation students. Covering a variety of text types including business letters, recipes and museum guides in six languages (Chinese, English, French, German, Russian and Spanish), this book presents authentic research based materials to support translation in any of these languages. Translating Texts will provide beginning translators with greater text awareness, a critical skill for professional translators. Including discussions of the key theoretical texts underlying this text-centred approach to translation and sample rubrics for self-assessment, this coursebook also provides easy instructions for creating additional corpora for other text types and in other languages. Ideal for both language neutral and language specific classroom settings, this is an essential text for undergraduate and graduate level programs in modern languages and translation.
