Punctuations Michael J. Shapiro, 2019-11-22 In Punctuations Michael J. Shapiro examines how punctuation conceived not as a series of marks but as a metaphor for the ways in which artists engage with intelligibility opens pathways for thinking through the possibilities for oppositional politics Drawing on Theodor Adorno Alain Robbe Grillet and Roland Barthes Shapiro demonstrates how punctuation s capacity to create unexpected rhythmic pacing makes it an ideal tool for writers musicians filmmakers and artists to challenge structures of power In works ranging from film scores and jazz compositions to literature architecture and photography Shapiro shows how the use of punctuation reveals the contestability of dominant narratives in ways that prompt readers viewers and listeners to reflect on their acceptance of those narratives Such uses of punctuation he theorizes offer models for disrupting structures of authority thereby fostering the creation of alternative communities of sense from which to base political mobilization

A Theory of the Origin and Evolution of Man Based on Hegel's Philosophy Sergey Peruskiy, 2020-03-30 This volume provides a scientific justification for the optimal formula of social justice through a critical analysis of the basic principles of Marxism While interest in Marxism is particularly prevalent in China today the theory developed here concerning the origins and evolution of man will be of interest to everyone and will help to contextualise questions of social justice within a scientific framework By providing a new interpretation of Hegelian thought alongside a synthesis of the thinking of Darwin and Marx the book details a law of the development of society using notable events from world history particularly the collapse of the USSR to verify it

Philosophy of Emerging Media Juliet Floyd, James Everett Katz, 2016 The term emerging media responds to the big data now available as a result of the larger role digital media play in everyday life as well as the notion of emergence that has grown across the architecture of science and technology over the last two decades with increasing imbrication The permeation of everyday life by emerging media is evident ubiquitous and destined to accelerate No longer are images institutions social networks thoughts acts of communication emotions and speech the media by means of which we express ourselves in daily life linked to clearly demarcated stable entities and contexts Instead the loci of meaning within which these occur shift and evolve quickly emerging in far reaching ways we are only beginning to learn and bring about This volume s purpose is to develop broaden and spark future philosophical discussion of emerging media and their ways of shaping and reshaping the habitus within which everyday lives are to be understood Drawing from the history of philosophy ideas of influential thinkers in the past intellectual path makers on the contemporary scene offer new philosophical perspectives laying the groundwork for future work in philosophy and in media studies On diverse topics such as identity agency reality mentality time aesthetics representation consciousness materiality emergence and human nature the questions addressed here consider the extent to which philosophy should or should not take us to be facing a fundamental transformation eMillions Stanley
