Torkelson,1995-12-01 Researchers of medicinal plants often find unfamiliar references to herbs when reading through ethnobotanical literature Very often they are familiar with the plant but not with the name used in a given context This book eliminates the time consuming task of further research by providing 28 000 common names of medicinal plants in a single source International in scope this unique reference allows matching of scientific and common names through a comprehensive cross index The first volume is organized alphabetically by scientific name while the other two volumes are a cross index by common name Phylum order and family are also provided as well as the language of the common name which helps to identify its geographic location      From Herbs to Healing Éva Szöke,Ágnes Kéry,Éva Lemberkovics,2023-01-17 In the twenty first century Pharmacognosy was transformed into a molecular science building on classic botanical and modern chemical knowledge leading to a better understanding of the complex molecular effect structure relationships and interactions required for the development of new drugs based on biologically active plant substances The work demonstrates the place of phytotherapy in healing the role of herbs in complementary and traditional therapy and research strategies for the development of drugs of natural plant origin This book is primarily designed for scientific researchers but is also very useful for undergraduate and postgraduate students in their professional training As this book discusses herbs from all over the world it is specifically drafted to be useful not only in Hungary and Europe but also for people in other continents as an English language encyclopaedia of medicinal plants and their biologically active compounds      Drug Information Bonnie Snow,1999-11-17 Designed for use as a self study text as a course text in more formal instruction programs or as a refresher for the busy professional the book includes valuable background data on legal and regulatory issues as well as pharmaceutical technology      Pharmacological Properties of Plant-Derived Natural Products and Implications for Human Health George E. Barreto,Amirhossein Sahebkar,2021-04-16 Medicinal plants and their derived products remain as an indispensable source of bioactive molecules that serve as either drug candidates or lead compounds for drug design and discovery. There are several advantages for plant derived therapeutics including wide availability, diverse pharmacological actions and a generally good profile of safety and tolerability. Over the recent years there have been numerous reports from clinical studies testifying to the efficacy and safety of medicinal plants and phytochemicals in ameliorating several human diseases. A plethora of basic studies has also unravelled molecular mechanisms underlying the health benefits of herbal medicines. Nevertheless, issues such as identification of bioactive ingredients, standardization of the products and drug interactions remain to be further studied. In this book we aim to put together several chapters on the medicinal properties and pharmacological action of medicinal plants, plant species and phytochemicals. The goal is to present a comprehensive collection on most of the therapeutic aspects of plant derived natural products and molecular mechanisms thereof.

Ethnobotany José L. Martinez, Alfred Maroyi, Marcelo L. Wagner, 2023-02-24. In this book we present recent studies that have been carried out on some widely used medicinal plants. The need for new and alternative treatments stem from the lack of efficiency of existing remedies for certain illnesses. We have compiled information that may be useful to researchers in their quest to develop new drugs.

Locality, History, Memory Rita Mukherjee, M. N. Rajesh, 2009-01-14. Locality, History, Memory: The Making of the Citizen in South Asia was born out of the need to interrogate the tropes through which place, history and memory underpin notions of citizenship in present South Asia. Time as both time present and time past is framed

here in two settings as privileging both place material or ideological site and space The latter refers to religion oppression marginalization and or dalitisation Time transcends both site location and actual physical boundaries Locality or location is therefore envisioned in terms of both actual place as well as a gateway to a larger space in terms of a situation where historical memory negotiates the increasingly complex present Agency and contingency therefore assume a critical importance here Citizenship far from being a discrete entity is found to be multidimensional it refers to formal status and the legal status of nationality and citizenship authenticated in the passport but it also refers to rights and privileges identity and solidarity religious beliefs and a sense of belonging Moving away from the role of the state which has been at the centre of all inquiries on citizenship we ask here the following questions in Locality History Memory How does our history enforce or dilute the notion of the citizen How far does memory strengthen or weaken it What role does features not normally associated with citizenship such as access to natural resources or ritual faith and religion play in reinforcing such a status History in the end is written by the historian and it was easy to map the changing methodologies used by the historians to essay the past but this is becoming increasingly difficult now Another twist is the shift to hypertext at a popular level echoing what the late E H Carr had once called bringing more and more people into history These so called alternative histories or people s histories are becoming more and more popular because of the point at which we are located in time Moreover devices afforded by the new media enable these alternative histories to have an immediacy that the conventional historical format lacked The collapse of state control over the new media has led to the resurgence of many archaic voices unimaginable just a decade ago
